

Joseph J. Albanese Inc. Expands to Montana With Acquisition of Allied Concrete

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Sept. 14, 2023 — Joseph J. Albanese Inc., a leading concrete and construction contractor, today announced it has expanded to Montana with the acquisition of Allied Concrete of Bozeman, Mont. The company previously expanded to Idaho and Utah with the opening of its Mountain West office in Boise, Idaho.

“We are delighted to announce our expansion to Big Sky country with the acquisition of Allied Concrete,” said Phillip J. Albanese, CEO of Joseph J. Albanese Inc. “The Allied Concrete team has a strong reputation for its quality concrete work and exceptional customer service. I am fired up for our team and the potential opportunities that Montana, along with the Mountain West regions, bring to our company.”

Allied Concrete, a Joseph J. Albanese Company, will be led by Chris Reed, project manager. He was previously a project manager of Allied Concrete, which was founded in 2021. The company focuses on residential and commercial concrete construction in the Big Sky area, including the Yellowstone Club, Spanish Peaks and Moonlight developments. All 26 current employees will remain part of the team.

“We are extremely pleased to become part of the Joseph J. Albanese family and to expand our capabilities in Montana,” Reed said. “This acquisition expands our capabilities with Joseph J. Albanese’s proven track record of creating opportunities for its team members and providing a high-quality product for its clients.”

“We’ve always been in the business of building more than just structures. We are in the business of turning visions into reality,” said Scott Gearhart, director of Business Development and former CEO of Allied Concrete. "Now, with Joseph J. Albanese, our toolbox just got a whole lot bigger. Together, we are constructing a blueprint for an even more exciting future."
