

Joseph J. Albanese, Inc. Promotes Bob Rogers to Director of Project Management

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Feb. 22, 2022 — Joseph J. Albanese, Inc. today announced the promotion of Bob Rogers to director of Project Management. Rogers has been with the company since 2008. This is his fourth promotion.

“We’re proud to promote Bob Rogers to director of Project Management. In his 13 years with the company, he has demonstrated exceptionally strong leadership skills, leading his teams to great accomplishments while getting the job done safely and on time,” said Phillip Albanese, president & CEO at Joseph J. Albanese, Inc.

In keeping with the company’s promise to promote from within, Rogers has been promoted four times. He started as an assistant estimator and was soon promoted to project manager. He was promoted to director of Demolition in 2011 and to project executive in 2016.

“I am excited to take on the new role directing our Project Management department and look forward to working more closely with our talented team,” Rogers said. “With dedication to solving whatever challenges come our way, we are committed to taking care of our valued clients and supporting our field team.”

In his new position, Rogers will be responsible for overseeing the execution of the company's project management procedures, initiatives and policies across a team of 44 project executives, project managers and project engineers.
