

Joseph J. Albanese Inc. Promotes Cameron Ragain to General Manager of Allied Concrete

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Sept. 25, 2025 — Joseph J. Albanese Inc., a leading concrete and construction contractor based in Northern Calif., today announced that it has promoted Cameron Ragain to general manager of Allied Concrete of Bozeman, Mont. Acquired by Joseph J. Albanese Inc. in 2023, Allied Concrete focuses on residential and commercial concrete construction in Montana, including Billings and Bozeman as well as the Big Sky region, which includes the Yellowstone Club, Spanish Peaks and Moonlight developments.

“We are delighted to promote Cameron to the position of general manager of Allied Concrete where he will oversee clients, teams and projects in Montana,” said Phillip J. Albanese, CEO of Joseph J. Albanese Inc. “We are very proud of Cameron’s accomplishments with our company in Northern California and look forward to his leadership in expanding our reach in Montana.”

Ragain has been with Joseph J. Albanese Inc. since 2013, most recently serving as a senior project manager for both Joseph J. Albanese Inc. and Allied Concrete. With more than 12 years of success overseeing all phases of multi-million-dollar construction projects, his experience includes all aspects of project management, including demolition, mass excavation, grading, structural and site concrete, paving and general engineering. The projects he oversees span a range of industries, including commercial, industrial, residential and public works.

Ragain holds a bachelor’s degree in construction management from Chico State University.

“Opportunity creation for our team and stakeholders is at the core of what Joseph J. Albanese Inc. has always been and will always be. Cameron is a great example of how valuing our team drives our company forward,” added Albanese.
